

Canada Winter Games Results 2007

Men All Around title went to Jackson Payne of Alberta (Capital City), whose 13.60 on the pommel horse (considered the most difficult men's event) was the highest score of the day on any event. His all-around score was 76.65.

The 15-year-old Payne won the competition after posting a total score of 76.650 from each of the six events including floor; pommel horse; rings; vault; parallel bars; and horizontal bars.

"I wanted to come here and win gold and I'm so happy I did," said an elated Payne. "I got off to a slow start, but things came together. It is really nice to win and have my result count for the medals under Alberta's flag."